Class Inequality, Labor, and/or related fields -- Associate/Full Professor

Location: Tufts University, Boston, MA

The Department of Sociology and the American Studies Program invite applications for the position of Associate or Full Professor of Sociology, to begin July 1, 2017. The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in sociology or a related field, a demonstrated record of academic research and publications deserving of tenure, and a demonstrated record of high quality teaching of undergraduates. The candidate is expected to provide future leadership for the inter-disciplinary American Studies Program, including directing the program. Candidates' research and teaching should specialize in class inequality, labor, and/or related fields. Candidates who can teach social theory are especially encouraged to apply.

Tufts University is a category I, highly selective research university and is located in the vibrant intellectual community of Boston. We seek a candidate committed to teaching a highly motivated, undergraduate student body.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Candidate application materials should include a cover letter stating qualifications and interest in the position, a curriculum vitae, a scholarly writing sample, teaching evaluations, and the names of three recommenders. Recommenders will only be contacted after the first screening stage and candidates will be informed when this happens. All application materials should be submitted via Interfolio at https://apply.interfolio.com/36334. Review of the applications will begin September 30, 2016, and will continue until the position is filled. Please contact John LiBassi at john.libassi@tufts.edu with any questions.
